Capture your garden's story on video forever

Most of us are just guardians and stewards of our gardens. Much of what we have planted will probably live on long after we do.

But many of us have also made a real difference to the space we have inhabited and cared for over the years – and are still having a great time doing it! We have become passionate, active lovers of our gardens, the plants and the associated wildlife.

So what's the best way to capture all your design changes, planting decisions and general garden stewardship for posterity – especially in this new digital world, where everything is online?

Quality Garden Videos offers you an affordable opportunity to capture on video the glory and story of your garden while it has been in your care.

We would love to understand your garden's story and to help you tell it in the best way possible on video for all those who will care – possibly your family and friends, those who'll visit it, and those who will care for it in the future.

Why now

Perhaps you have an important birthday or anniversary coming up, you will be opening the garden for charity or perhaps you will be moving house or planning a major change to the garden soon. Or this might just simply be the right time to do it because it is looking great.

Why call us

We are very experienced plant and garden lovers who happen to be professional video makers too. Our video production experience will help you tell your garden story in the best possible way, our fabulous HD filming will help capture it (and your existing photos), and our editing and project management skills will make sure you have the video that meets your brief, tells your story best and is the highest quality – at an agreed price.

We'll also help you to show it on your TV ie a big screen in full HD as well as on your computer etc.. If you would like we can also put it on your website if you have one, on YouTube and a special site for quality garden videos run by us.

Please call Rosie Catherwood on 07747 793800 or email rosie.catherwood@gmail.com to start talking about how best to tell your garden's story.
